The world is at a critical juncture, where the effects of climate change continue to disrupt economies, businesses and societies. Due to Asia's significant population base, robust economic development and a strong long-term growth potential, this region is where the battle against climate change will be won or lost. It is imperative that our actions and strategies mirror the urgency of these times. Reducing greenhouse gas emissions and adapting to the evolving climate are not merely options, but a fundamental necessity. Energy Asia offers the much-needed platform to discuss and debate the tectonic changes underway in the energy landscape.

Inaugural Energy Asia

Held in June 2023, Energy Asia featured a lineup of influential speakers from multiple industries. Some of the topics addressed the inter-related aspects of policy, technology, financing and geo-politics of the energy transition, with a particular focus on navigating the energy trilemma, and the role of collaborations and partnerships in ensuring the resiliency of ecosystems and supply chains for a sustainable future.

Energy Asia 2025

Delivering on net-zero and climate ambitions require commitment, active involvement and participation of public and private sectors, policymakers, as well as civil societies and communities. Fostering this strategic collaboration is key in driving and championing progress in commercialising emission-reduction technologies, developing relevant infrastructure, as well as upskilling talent to support an inclusive energy transition.

On 16 - 18 June 2025 with the theme Delivering Asia's Energy Transition, the second edition of Energy Asia will host a series of strategic discourse between influential speakers and prominent scholars from across the energy ecosystem. This will be a definitive platform as we endeavour to deliver a sustainable energy future for Asia.
